(7) If the reasons of the Institution of Surveyors are not given in writing at the time of making a decision and the person affected by the decision, within one month of the making of the decision, requires the Institution to state its reasons in writing, the time for instituting an appeal runs from the time when the person receives the written statement of those reasons.

(8) Where the Institution of Surveyors or the Court is satisfied that an applicant for renewal of a licence or registration under this Act has instituted or intends to institute an appeal under this section, it may extend the period of the licence or registration until the determination of the appeal and impose such conditions on the licence or registration as it thinks fit.

(b) declare, by notice in the Gazette, specified areas of the State to be designated survey areas, being areas of land in respect of which cadastral surveys must be carried out by reference to permanent survey marks in accordance with survey instructions in force under this Act, and for which coordinates must be determined in accordance with those instructions; and

(c) record the coordinates of the boundaries of land within each designated survey area as determined by surveys carried out in the area (whether before or after the declaration of the area as a designated survey area), compare the coordinates recorded in relation to all allotments of land within the area and make any necessary adjustments to the recorded coordinates; and

(2) However, a declaration under subsection (1) may only be made if the Surveyor-General is satisfied that, generally, the occupation of land within the area does not accord to a substantial extent with the boundaries of land as shown in records or plans kept in the Lands Titles Registration Office.

(3) A notice under this section may be varied or revoked by subsequent notice in the Gazette.

Surveys within Confused Boundary Area

51. (1) Where a cadastral survey of land within a Confused Boundary Area is carried out by a surveyor, the boundaries of the land must (instead of being determined in accordance with accepted surveying practice and the provisions of this Act) be determined on the basis of what is fair and equitable having regard to—

(a) sets out the basis on which the boundaries were determined; and

(b) is signed by the surveyor who certifies the plan.

(3) The Registrar-General must examine a plan lodged under subsection (2) and then forward a copy of the plan to the Surveyor-General for approval under this section.

(4) As soon as practicable after a plan of the boundaries of land within a Confused Boundary Area is forwarded to the Surveyor-General under this section, the Surveyor-General must give notice in accordance with this section—

(a) to all persons with a registered interest in the land; and

(b) to all persons with a registered interest in land adjoining the land; and

(c) to all other persons who have a registered interest in land that is likely, in the opinion of the Surveyor-General, to be directly or indirectly affected; and

(d) to the council for the area in which the land is situated.

(5) A notice under subsection (4)—

(a) must specify a place at which the plan may be viewed during normal office hours; and
(b) must specify a period (not less than 28 days after the date of the notice) within which objections relating to the determination of the land boundaries will be received by the Surveyor-General.

(5a) The Surveyor-General must, in considering any objections received under this section, consult with the Registrar-General.

(a) approve the plan with or without modification; and

(b) carry out such further work as is necessary in view of the terms of the approval.

(7) The Surveyor-General must give notice of the terms of an approval and, if a plan is approved with modification, a brief description of the reasons for the decision as to those terms, to—

(a) the surveyor responsible for the survey; and

(b) all persons who were entitled to be notified under subsection (4) and who continue to hold the registered interest in land by reason of which they were so entitled; and

(c) all persons who have since the date of that notification acquired a registered interest in land by reason of which they would have been entitled to be notified if they had held that interest at that date.

(8) Any person entitled to receive a notice under subsection (7) may, within 14 days after receipt of the notice, appeal against the decision of the Surveyor-General to the Land and Valuation Court.

(9) The Land and Valuation Court may, on the hearing of an appeal, hear such evidence as it thinks fit, whether or not the evidence was produced before the Surveyor-General.

(10) The Land and Valuation Court may, on the hearing of an appeal, exercise any one or more of the following powers:

(a) affirm or vary the decision appealed against, or make in addition any decision that should have been made in the first instance;

(b) quash the decision appealed against and substitute any decision that should have been made in the first instance;

(c) remit the subject matter of the appeal to the Surveyor-General for further consideration;

(d) make any further or other order as to costs or any other matter that the case requires.

(11) If no appeal is lodged under this section against the approval of a plan by the Surveyor-General, the Registrar-General may deposit that plan in the Lands Titles Registration Office.

(12) If an appeal is lodged under this section and the Land and Valuation Court on appeal approves a plan, the Registrar-General may deposit that plan in the Lands Titles Registration Office.
